

I am not a lobbyist or a broadcasting professional. I am a regular citizen who is very concerned that the public airwaves are being sold to the highest bidder, with no regard for the quality or diversity of broadcasting that will result. I am very much against the proposed changes to media ownership rules. There is already a lack of diversity on the radio and on TV, and further consolidating of ownership will only make it worse. We are moving toward a Soviet-style media, where all broadcast outlets reflect the official government voice and nothing else. This is not democracy.
